

A diverse record of leadership...

- Military command (Reserve Captain in the French Air Force Commandos, Air Base 701 – French Air and Space Force Academy).
- Sports club leadership and management (karate, full contact, kickboxing; alpine skiing; general aviation)
- Secondary, higher and vocational education (French national education system and social organisations)
- Chairmanships in the voluntary and community sector (philosophical organisations, charitable clubs, professional associations and large condominium associations)
- Entrepreneurial leadership: founding and managing businesses

A credo...

The true source of human knowledge is professional experience!

Education and qualifications are merely the necessary first step in a journey that may continue throughout a lifetime...

An early career...

Initially a linguist and phonetician, a secondary-school teacher of English and a university lecturer in technical and legal translation, Éric Bon also worked as a company executive, translator and conference interpreter before leaving his public- and private-sector posts to establish his own business in 1984, the year in which he was appointed a sworn expert to the Court of Appeal.

...and its development...

- His group of micro, small and medium-sized enterprises grew to encompass eight companies and a consultancy practice
- A legal practitioner, the current Commander holds two master's degrees in law (University of Nice – Université Lumière Lyon 2, graduating top of his class)
- He complemented these with doctoral studies (ABD) specialising in leadership and related law, and

-an executive doctorate at a French grande école (E-DBA, Executive Doctor of Business Administration, École des Ponts Business School, École Nationale des Ponts/Institut Polytechnique de Paris), together with certification in “Artificial Intelligence in Business” (University of Malta)

...and its continuation...

He is currently writing a further doctoral thesis on smart mobility for the city of Marseille, “Project Stakeholder Perspectives on Developing Aerial Cable Car Projects” (Doctor of Philosophy—PhD—and European Doctorate at EIM, the European Institute of Management, Malta)

A nod to creativity...

An author, Éric Bon is a Fellow of the Société des Gens de Lettres (SGDL)
